Warning to Guard Against Grasshoppers

Urges Fall Plowing On All
Stubble Land

Grasshoppers are still a serious menace in Southern Alberta and the indications are that the season of 1936 will see another large outbreak unless early and decided effort is put forth by the farmers to counteract the pest. Fall cultivation of stubble land is being urged by the provincial agricultural authorities as a means of destroying hopper eggs. A great deal of loss resulted this season from the fact that many farmers failed to heed the advice to cultivate stubble fields last fall, and that they proceeded to seed these badly infested lands this spring. Many of these fields are a total loss.

Prof. Strickland, of Alberta University, says it is well known that no grasshoppers lay their eggs in fallow land. Every field which is seeded after fallow, is, therefore free from hoppers when the latter hatch in the spring. A careful examination of the fence rows at that time, and the use of bait on them when hoppers are seen, have hatched in large numbers will keep such fields free from grasshoppers at least until they are flying.

"In stubble fields the problem is more serious. Eggs may be laid throughout their length and breadth. These eggs are laid throughout the length and breadth of the stubble, and during the fall till heavy frosts kill off all the egg-laying females. They are placed just beneath the surface of the soil and, provided they remain undisturbed before winter practically all of them will hatch in the spring.

All stubble should be shallowly cultivated in the fall. Nearly all the eggs will perish, however, if the infested stubble be cultivated to a depth of not more than two inches in the fall. The object of this is to bring as many of the eggs to the surface as is possible. Any which are thus exposed will perish. The farmer can use what implement he prefers so long as he keeps this object in mind. A well conducted fall cultivation should destroy about 75% of the eggs. It is obvious that it is far more satisfactory to destroy the majority of the grasshoppers in this manner, before they have hatched than it is to wait till they have already caused irretrievable damage in the spring before it is possible to reduce their numbers with bait.

While many farmers are eager to fall cultivate, which might enhance soil drifting, yet there can be little danger from this if the cultivation is shallow leaving a "trash mulch" on the surface.

The eight-hour day and the commission on trade and industry come into effect on Oct. 1st.

Premier Bennett passed through Medicine Hat Tuesday afternoon and was met by a number of friends during his twenty minute stay between trains. Quite a number from Redcliff greeted him on the platform.

School Field Day Held Next Wednesday

Will Be Held On The Local
Stampee Grounds

The School Field Day will be held next Wednesday on the Stampee grounds. Preliminary in the jumping and throwing events have already been held. Only the best four or five contestants will compete on the grounds. This will make the events much more exciting and interesting for the spectators. The races will be open to all.

In the event of inclement weather the day will be postponed.

There will be no charge for admission to the grounds but a dollar collection will be taken up. The proceeds will go into the general school funds.

It is hoped that a large crowd will turn out to watch this great annual event of the school.

WEDDING BELLS

Bealer — Hodges

St. Ambrose church was the scene of an interesting wedding last Saturday afternoon when Miss Joke Hodges, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hodges, was united in holy wedlock to Mr. Erwin Bealer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bealer, all of Redcliff. Rev. H. S. Hammett performed the ceremony.

The bride was becomingly dressed in white satin with veil and carried a bouquet of white lilies. Miss Bealer, sister of groom, acted as bridesmaid and was dressed in pale blue satin, carrying a bouquet of roses. Wm. Hodges, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the wedding ceremony lunch was served at the home of the groom's parents and in the evening the young couple entertained to a most enjoyable house party.

Mr. and Mrs. Bealer will reside in Redcliff in future.

Parsons — Bennett

A quiet wedding took place in Medicine Hat last Saturday afternoon when Miss Audrey Bennett, of that city, was joined in wedlock to Mr. Fred Parsons, of the Dominion Glass Co., Redcliff. Miss Bennett, sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Phillip Parsons brother of the groom acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons left for a honeymoon trip through the mountains and will reside in Redcliff on their return.

"Let 'Em Have It" With All-Star Cast At Empress Theatre

"Let 'Em Have It," the new Romance thriller glorifying the Federal operatives in their current war on organized criminals to the Empress Theatre. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, one of the seasons greatest casts.

Richard Arlen, Virginia Bruce, Alice Brady, Bruce Cabot, Henry Stephens, Eric Linden, and Gracie Jones, the sensational new football star-film "find."

and the cast which also includes Hale Hamilton, J. Farrell MacDonald, Dorothy Appleby, Barbara Pepper and a score of other popular names.

Joseph Moncreux March and Henry Harris wrote the story which presents Arlen, Stephens and Jones as three fearless Federal sleuths who pit science and brains against machine guns.

Cabot is seen as Joe Keefe, chauffeur who starts his shocking career of crime by engineering the attempted kidnapping of his society girl employer played by Virginia Bruce. Paroled, he grows more and more daring, finally becoming "Public Enemy No. 1."

The relentless pursuit and "red" spectacular capture of Keefe by the three boddies make for one of the most exciting adventures the screen has ever shown.

When the Aberhart government took over the reins of office at Edmonton, they were content to sing that great hymn: "When we got there, the board was bare."

Several Bingvill —Farmers Can't Vote

Fifteen Disfranchised through A Bad Oversight

Owing to some bad error in compiling the Voters' List for the approaching Dominion election, a number of voters in the Bingville district have been left out of the list and will be thus unable to vote.

It appears that in arranging the boundaries for the enumeration half a township in 1913 and another half in 1917 have been entirely omitted, and here are 15 or 20 voters who have been in that district for twenty years, now disfranchised.

Since this is a mistake of government officials there should be some way to have the error remedied, even though the election act does not provide for such oversights. It appears rather strange that the minister or some other official had not discovered this before it was too late.

Now Looks as Though War is Inevitable

Italy Labels Negotiations As
"Absolutely Unacceptable"

Reports of developments during the past few days would indicate that there is little hope of a friendly settlement between Italy and Ethiopia and that a conflict is inevitable.

Recent moves made by Italy indicate that she is likely to reject all peace plans. Italy's envoy at Geneva has been called home after receiving the veto of the five-power conference committee in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. The Italian delegation labelled the basis of negotiations as "absolutely unacceptable."

The Reuters correspondent at Harar, Ethiopia, reported yesterday that a call to arms has been issued by Dedjamatash Nachebe, governor of Harar, who ordered all able-bodied men into military service.

The report said the governor warned that slakers who disobeyed his orders would be arrested dressed in women's clothing and hanged through the streets, then hanged.

Little Theatre Asso. Organizes For Season

Plan Of Action Left In Hands
Of The Executive

At a meeting held in St. Ambrose parish hall last Monday evening the local Little Theatre Association was reorganized for the season.

Although the attendance was small those present were most enthusiastic in helping the association going and making use of the Little Theatre building upon which so much improvement has been made during the past two years.

No definite plans were made for the line of activities to be carried on throughout the season. This was left in the hands of the executive committee. It was suggested, however, that since so little interest was taken in the Little Theatre activities, this line be abandoned for the season. Instead the building to be conducted as a community affair and open to all organizations in town which wish to make use of it for entertainment purposes and for the development of talent of any kind.

The following officers were elected: President — R. S. Hammett; Vice Pres. — Miss Broadfoot; Sec. Treas. — Miss Salthorn; Production Mgr. — W. King; House Com. — G. Kitchen, chairman; W. Balmer, H. Lemming, T. Fairhurst. The chairman of the house committee to be a member of the executive.

Agricultural Revenue Has Greatly Increased

Great Improvement Noted During Past Four Years

In the British House of Commons in 1930, Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Rosensfield, said: "It is much easier to be critical than to be correct. Disraeli was right. His words could easily be repeated with justification in the present day and generation. Many people are critical in these times. They are extremely difficult to convince. Then again they will not go to the trouble to try and convince themselves that this country of ours is getting back on its feet. Instead they sit back and criticize. They have fallen into a state of laissez faire. They will do nothing. Nothing but criticize. They listen to speakers and read articles smearing the good name of this country. They accept the statements as true. If someone tells them that business is getting better they say 'Don't hand me that stuff.' We will cite just one of the many cases pointing to a betterment in the condition of Canada during the past four years. Figures do not lie. The latest of the Bureau of Statistics show that while in 1931 the agricultural revenue of the Dominion was estimated at $839,881,000 it jumped in 1934 to $931,247,000 an increase of $91,466,000. Every province in the Dominion recorded an increase in agricultural revenue during the period in question.

Premier Aberhart is Back From The East

Found Friendly Spirit With The Bankers on Dividends

"There was no longer a suspicion in eastern Canada we are a group of wild-eyed radicals," Premier Aberhart, leader of Alberta's newly elected Social Credit government, stated on his return from the east. Accompanied by J. W. Hugill, K. C., provincial attorney-general, the school teacher economist arrived from the east where he sought financial aid for his province. He expressed himself as "delighted with his visit."

Premier Aberhart said he had discussed with bankers the question of handling Social Credit dividend payments but nothing definite was decided. "We found a friendly spirit prevailing and have been asked to submit our plans in detail," he said.

"That's fair enough, isn't it?"

Paint Prices Are Now Sharply Reduced

First Quality Paint Will Sell
For $3.95 Per Gal.

A sharp reduction in the price of first quality house paint to $3.95 per gallon is announced by the manufacturers of some of Canada's best known brands of paint, the reduction to take place immediately.

In making the announcement the companies concerned state that the reduction is not justified by any change in market conditions or manufacturing costs. They point out, however, that during the past few years many householders have been misled by "bargain" prices for inferior paint with result that reacted unfavourably on the whole industry.

The companies announcing the reduction are Canada Paint International, Varnish, Martin, Sonner and Sherwin-Williams.

The Most Delicious Tea

Make Your Own Job

Conditions throughout the world during the past five years have admittedly been most discouraging to all people, but especially to youth. As boys and girls have come out of school and college, ready to take their place in the business world, even at the bottom of the ladder, they have discovered there was no place for them. They have been denied even the opportunity of making a start because the financial and economic world has been out of joint, with business marking time, and no development work being undertaken.

As a result, thousands have become discouraged, embittered because of denied and frustrated hopes and ambitions, have become drifters because they have lost hope for the future and accepted the easy but mistaken view that present conditions must be accepted as permanent conditions. Lacking any background of years in which work was plentiful, and having no experience in profitable employment, they can see no light ahead.

Such an attitude of mind is a terrible mistake. Future years will be just as bright, in fact brighter just as busy, in fact busier just as rich in opportunity and in enterprising development. In fact more so. The world will not stand still; neither will it move backward. Since the beginning of time and the dawn of civilization, the movement, despite temporary setbacks, has always been both onward and upward. It will continue so.

Consider the most familiar names of people and products on the lips of practically everybody to-day—Henry Ford, Firestone, H. J. Heinz, Coca-Cola, Burton's Milk, Hittor Root Beer, Welch's Grape Juice, Maxwell House Coffee, Zell-O, and similar names. Do these names mean anything to the youth of to-day? They should.

It was in 1893 that Henry Ford began working on a double-cylinder engine in a little shop on his farm. When he went to work in Detroit at $4.80 a month he took his shop along, and in 1893 his gasoline buggy was running and for a long time was the only automobile in Detroit. Forty years later he was a world-famous man.

Firestone was a buggy salesman who became convinced there was a great future in the rubber business. He bought strips of rubber, cut crude crude tires and sold them, to buggy whips. There began the great tire industry of to-day.

H. J. Heinz used to grow horse-radish in his garden and peddle it from door to door. This backyard venture put him on the road to becoming Heinz 57.

In 1856 a doctor in Atlanta sold working over a kettle in an old house. On the next corner was a drugstore, and periodically the doctor rubbed over spirited customers, where some came to drinking a sample of scum, and tasted the mixture. After about 300 attempts he had the first Coca-Cola.

While bottling in New Jersey, Charles E. Hirt was served a drink by a farmer's wife. Its ingredients were sassafras, sassafras, and sweet fern, all gathered locally. Hirt smacked his lips. Returning home he experimented with herbs, roots and herbs. This was Hittor Root Beer.

John W. Wamacher, the great merchant prince of the United States, discovered his first bill of goods from a wheelbarrow. Adam Gimbel, founder of the stores which bear his name, started with a pack on his back. Timothy Eaton started in a little corner lot where the story of Woolworth's five-and-ten-cent store is too well known to call for repetition. The great Crane Company, manufacturers of piping, valves, bath-room fixtures, etc., had its inception in a little brick house.

These great enterprises of to-day had very humble beginnings, many of them within the life of the present generation. Opportunities are just as great to-day. "What's going to alter our lives is probably happening this minute in a backyard workshop, where some craft is tinkling by himself," Henry Ford declared recently. Another man states it this way: "Many of the million-dollar corporations of to-morrow are starting to-day with little capital but no idea in selling, either in sales, offices, kitchens, and in the minds of clerks behind store counters."

Recently the head of a huge business in the United States selling many different products found about four new products, all launched since January, 1930, and now selling widely. David was not afraid of getting out and meeting youth with an idea or capable of animating one, with vision, enterprise and daring can go as successful in our age as the Goliaths of big corporations.

To quote Henry Ford again, who recently said that unemployed people "should create their own businesses, no matter how small, instead of waiting for some one to give them a job." And as a writer in Forbes Magazine, from which much of the above is taken, says: "Ten years from now we will be reading more success stories gathered from the kitchens and cellars of 1935." No one who has a work-bench or a stove and a dollar—and an idea—has any need be discouraged.

Strange Service

Two Dead Mules Worshiped in St. Paul's Cathedral

One of the strangest and most disgusting services ever held under the mighty dome of St. Paul's cathedral on a recent Sunday saw two dead mules and persons from 14 nations pray and sing. The mules' sound being heard. They were athletes attending the fourth international games for the dead and mules held in London. The service was conducted in the international sign language. Chaplains and missionaries related the story partly, and violently acted out the prayers, hymns and songs with eloquent looks and gestures.

Then the congregation joined in prayers and hymns.

For So-Called Luxuries

Bureau of Statistics Has Issued Some Interesting Figures

What are luxuries? The Dominion Bureau of Statistics started to compile figures on the luxuries produced and consumed in Canada in a year, and was confronted with the difficulty that one man's luxury is another man's ordinary, every-day commodity. This is true of food, furniture, clothes and so on. Even tobacco is claimed by some to be a necessity. So the bureau finally decided to list everything as a luxury which actually above the line of necessities. It included, therefore, such things as carpets, silverware, jams and cooked meats, and so, naturally, it did not present its conclusions as a hard-and-fast statement of luxury consumption in Canada, but rather "an attempt to throw some light on the production and consumption in Canada of goods which are more or less in the nature of luxuries." It found that the total value of these in 1933 was $263,608,195, or 12.5 per cent of the total value of production in Canadian manufacturing industries. The retail values would, of course, be much higher.

The bureau also obtained Canadian consumption figures by subtracting exports from the figures for imports and production. It found that in 1933 the so-called luxuries were consumed to a factory value of $268,000,000.

Some of the individual items are rather interesting. Canada eats nearly to the extent of nearly $17,000 per year per capita, or to the extent of more than $7,300,000,000, confectionery, including chewing gum, over $6,000,000,000. Cakes and party account for more than $10,000,000; beverages (not including tea, coffee, cocoa, etc.), nearly $1,000,000; six bottles of beer, $10,000. The figures are not often considered a luxury nowadays, nearly $4,000,000,000 per year, or to the extent of more than $4,000,000,000. The surprising item in the list is that for tobacco, as follows:

Cigars . . . $4,018,138 $4,765,203
Cigarettes . . . $6,132,977 $6,812,241
Other . . . $2,242,202 $2,518,697

$74,981,347 $71,274,213

These again are factory values. For passenger automobiles, bicycles and boats, the people of the Dominion paid the manufacturers less than half what they did. The story of the last year, 1933, was $24,254,984 in 1932, and $24,518,970 in 1933.—Toronto Daily Star.

Severely For Prisoners Demanded by German Minister Of Justice

"Severity" for prisoners as a Nazi tenet was demanded by Franz Gumbel, minister of justice, at the opening of the 11th quinquennial penal conference in Berlin.

If criminal law is to represent punishment for crime, the community," he told the 400 delegates from 50 nations, "and hence defend the state, the national conscience in severity in the treatment of prisoners as the punishment may be applicable to the crime."

Justice also announced that the Nazi reich has definitely rejected the ancient legal principle: "Nulla poena sine lege" (no punishment unless a law is infringed). Instead, he said, it has substituted the maxim: "Nulla poena sine poena," under which punishment is meted out regardless of the incompleteness of a law.

"Why sure, Granny," said the girl. "What are the words?"

Celebrating Anniversary

Violin Industry Started In German Town 250 Years Ago

Mittenwald, Germany, a village in the mountains of Bavaria is now celebrating the 250th anniversary of its violin industry, begun in the 17th century by Matthias Klotz.

Throughout the summer the town folk presented a play, "The Song of the Stars," telling the story of Klotz and his wanderings over Italy, where he learned instrument making. The play will be staged again this winter at a nearby town as part of the entertainment for the winter Olympics.

The story of Matthias Klotz is a romantic one. When he was a boy of 10 his peasant father sent him to Italy to study under famous violin makers there. Twenty years later he returned to Mittenwald, opening his own workshop. Apparently felled by him and soon he established the fame of the town for fine instruments, a reputation Mittenwald retains to-day.

After making a number of instruments, Klotz's craftsmen had to go out into the world themselves to sell them. Strapping their violins on their backs they wandered through nearby countries, giving demonstrations and making sales in castles and great monasteries.

Correspondence Courses

Extending Education To Those Out Of Reach Of Schools

Nine years ago the Ontario department of education started correspondence courses for persons out of reach of school either for the whole school year or part of the summer months. The courses were intended also for those physically unable to attend school and for whom no provision was made for education.

During the last school year the enrollment was 1,800 of whom 50 were physically unable to attend school. The courses are free and the department pays all expenses. Average cost of educating a pupil for a year in this manner is from $15 to $15.

King Pleased With Jubilee Offering From Free State

The Jubilee present which Loyalty to the Irish Free State has given King George VI is declared to be not only nationally appropriate but most acceptable to His Majesty. It is a beautiful antique silver potato ring. These rings, which measure up to a foot in diameter, were in former days put in the ground during dining table and within them were placed the potatoes, cooked in their jackets, to keep them from rolling.

The story is similar for the king. The rings are made of silver and are placed in the ground during dining table and within them were placed the potatoes, cooked in their jackets, to keep them from rolling.

The king is a devoted to old silver as the Queen is to antique furniture.

Marking The Ballot

Strange As It May Seem, Many Voters Mark The Job

Placing an X beside a candidate's name is a simple task but the approaching Dominion general election is likely 25,000 or more voters will mark the job.

In the 1930 contest $4,130 lost their votes through improper marking of ballots and there are more parties and candidates this time to confuse the voter.

Parliament places the ballots in the hands of voters and supplies pens to mark them. That is as much as it can do. Electors have only to make the crosses themselves. Yet in 1930 ballots were rejected in every constituency in Canada.

Markings in addition to the cross, use of a pen or colored pencil instead of the black pencil provided and signing of the ballot by the voter are the most frequent causes of spoiled ballots.

Through habit many men use their fountain pens and despite returning others throw out their ballots. In accounts, however, judges frequently have ruled such ballots valid. The Election Act says the cross must be made with a black pencil.

Many persons start to mark their X opposite the wrong name, score it out and then mark it opposite the candidate they wish to support. This spoils the ballot. They should ask the deputy returning officer for a new one.

Voters sometimes ask why all this fuss over markings when the voter's choice is plainly indicated? The answer is that precautions are necessary to discourage bribery. They are the culmination of years of experience with elections, the frailties of human nature and the cunning of some politicians.

In the '90s and earlier when the population was smaller, party workers knew which voters were Conservative, Liberal and those "on the fence." Of the undecided voters some would sell their votes and the temptation of workers in a close race was strong.

But unless the voter buyer could be sure those he bought went to his candidate there was no use buying them. Many ingenious devices were used to allow party scrutineers to identify ballot which they were buying. The result has been the regulations to prevent distinguishing marks.

Election workers claim there is very little direct bribery now. Bids are so popular and party officials of voters as individuals would cost too much. In addition there is the almost certain risk of the election being voided.

Cultivating Desert Waste

Irrigation Will Make Garden of Eden Fruitful Again

The Garden of Eden is going to flower again. Within the next three years land that has been a desert waste for 3,000 years will be transformed by British engineers into a fruitful, cultivated area.

But instead of "every tree that is pleasant to the sight and good for food," as Genesis records, there will be vast areas of maize, cotton and wheat.

This changing of the face of a country will be effected by building a great barrage across the river Tigris at Kut.

British engineers—Messrs. Balfour and Beatty, of London—have secured the contract. This work will cost £1,100,000. It will take three years to complete.

The barrage will irrigate nearly 10,000 square miles of Iraq, between the Tigris and the Euphrates.

In that area, according to both modern research and Hebrew tradition, lies the site of the Garden of Eden.

To-day it is trackless desert, completely without vegetation, except in occasional oases and half-mile wide strips by the side of the main rivers. But it is potentially rich in fertility.

The irrigation scheme is in operation the Bedouins will be invited to abandon their caravans and settle on the land.

To some nomad Arab will fall the honor of cultivating the land where Adam and Eve walked before the Fall. Archaeologists have discovered that this region was fruitful until about 3,000 years ago.

All the trees were cut down, presumably for fuel and building, by the Babylonians of that day, and thus there remained a natural method of conserving the scanty rainfall and river supply. The Babylonians had the wisdom to do this.

What happened to it nobody knows. A Greek historian says that in the days of Babylon the crops of the area now to be irrigated included "wheat, sesame, barley, palms and apples, and shelled fruit grew wild."

But for 3,000 years the region has been desert.

The Kut barrage will divert part of the waters of the Tigris at the dry season into the river Shatt-el-Cherret, which is probably the stream which Genesis says: "Went out of Eden to water the garden, and from thence it was parted and became into four heads."

Ban On Foreign Clothes

Measure Proposed In China To Retard Import of Goods

To correct the dollar balance of trade which Kuangtung has been suffering, General Chen Chi-tang, Commander-in-Chief of Kuangtung forces, has proposed in Canton a measure to restrict the use of imported goods, including an official ban on the wearing of foreign clothes. It is understood that the proposal, which has been submitted to the Political Bureau, will provide for enforcement of the ban among government employees first.

General Chen has also suggested that Government employees be required to attend office at seven o'clock every morning in order to take exercise before attending their duties.

Author Who Married American Regains Her British Nationality

After an eight-years' fight to regain her British nationality, a woman has been granted a British passport certificate. She is Mrs. Winifred Lewis of Jan-Miss Winifred Lewis, the author.

"It does not make a glow in the heart," said Mrs. de Jan, "because I have always been British, however much they tried to make me a traitress to my country."

Mrs. de Jan married an American citizen in 1912, but the marriage was dissolved in Panama.

Made Double Catch

B.C. Fisherman Could Claim New Kind Of Angling Record

Talitho Gordon, a fisherman of the Talitho country at Bella Coola, B.C., believes he can claim some kind of an angling record. While fishing recently he caught a large halibut and a fifteen-foot muskellunge in the same line, the books being not more than five feet apart. Although the muskellunge is a ichthyologic creature, it has acquired a good deal of energy to bring the double catch to shore.

Fortune Wasted Yearly

Failures In American Schools Cost Fathers 90 Million Dollars

Playing hockey and dogging home runs may be heeded teachers of American schoolboys, but if Dad ever gets wise to how much it's costing him, it won't be so romantic.

Two out of every seven students have to repeat one year of school-work before they reach the seventh grade, the U.S. Bureau of Education revealed in figures given out.

The cost of these flunking youngsters—wails Dad, yelp—is somewhere in the neighborhood of 90 million dollars a year.

There's one bright spot, however. The Bureau says the figures on flunks are dropping all the time. It's not, however, because Willy is playing less hockey, or Jane is more conscientious about homework.

It's because of improved teaching methods, says the Bureau, particularly the modern method of classifying students and letting those who can learn rapidly go ahead, without being held back by the class duffers.

That not only helps to pull up the general average of promotions, but it means that the subnormal pupils segregated from the others—get closer attention, and learn more rapidly.

With establishment of kindergarten, too, has improved the general situation, the Bureau explains, because it gives children a training in school methods and discipline, and a psychological foundation that permits them to assimilate first-grade learning without delay.

The cost figure for flunkers, in reality, is higher than the 90 million dollar estimate, the Bureau explains, because these figures are based on white students in city schools. Rural schools have a much poorer showing as a rule, and Negro schools, particularly in the South, have the lowest promotion average of all.

Of these, however, are not available.

Meeting Provocation

Man's Best Weapon Is Keeping Control Of Himself

No man is at his best when he has lost control of himself, and the lines of all times when a man needs to be at his best is when he is being attacked. Yet how many men derive themselves into thinking that they actually gain in force and effectiveness by letting go of themselves—"getting mad" and showing it under provocation! To do so is to weaken one's self and to uncover to others the weakness of one's own character. One can continue to smile, inside and out, no matter what the provocation to do otherwise, has a weapon that makes him hopelessly loving to his enemies. The man who "gets mad" hands over his best weapon to the opposition.

Still Able To Compete

Mrs. Mayne Mayne, 64 years old, of Auburn, Melbourne, is Australia's oldest active woman athlete. Despite her active years she competes regularly in women's athletic events and with her last race three months ago, she won her first race at the age of six and has been competing ever since. She has three sons, the eldest 31, and the youngest 16.

Extremes Of Temperature

The greatest extremes of temperature are to be found in the Himalaya mountains. A temperature of 219 degrees Fahrenheit was recently observed during the day, while that night it fell to thirty-one degrees below zero—a range of 250 degrees Fahrenheit, says an article in Nature's Magazine.

Loss Of Physical Fitness

Many Unemployed Ineriors In Health To Steady Workers

What has been generally regarded as one of the most tragic features of current employment—the loss of morale and physical fitness in the ranks of the jobless—now comes home with new force following the examination of a group of men in Toronto.

Out of some four hundred unemployed single men only fifty per cent. were found to be in suitable condition for highway or farm work.

The voice of sound medical opinion replaces the ranting of the professional politician.

That this condition is world wide, and not confined to Canada, is a well established fact. A recent survey in Great Britain showed that factory men were far inferior physically to the employed, and still more so when compared to university students.

The unemployed, particularly those industrial centres as Newcastle-on-Tyne, Liverpool and Birmingham, are the most physically fit.

It is there is one slight redeeming prospect in this situation it is that as the Great War proved, these men of poor physique can soon regain their full strength and stamina when returned to employment. The "dole" is no solution of the greatest problem arising out of the depression; restoration of productive work is the goal to which public men, irrespective of party, must bend their efforts.

The damage done, physically and mentally, to those who have taken refuge in relief, is the first challenge to statesmanship—Hamilton Spectator.

Solved Difficulty

Carpenters in Oklahoma City saved a house in two as a loan firm might take possession of half of it under a mortgage foreclosures that entailed complicated legal proceedings. The house was built on parts of adjoining lots, one of which was mortgaged. When the loan company "tried" to foreclose, Mrs. Fern Chadwick, owner, moved her possessions into the part of the house built on the other lot.

Spirit Behind The Words

The Ottawa Journal says there was more than the politeness of diplomacy in the words of the Welsh Nonconformist who presented his credentials to the Governor-General as United States Minister to Canada. Behind them there was the spirit of a sincere friendship and understanding between two peoples hardly matched in the history of the world.

Warning Against Drugs

Heavy Increase In Habit In England Druggists State

A warning that Britain was becoming a nation of drug-takers was given at the annual meeting of the British Dental Association in London.

Col. H. F. Humphreys, of Hampton-Arden, said the habit of private drug-taking in England was becoming a nation of drug-takers was given at the annual meeting of the British Dental Association in London.

Dr. H. N. Craig of Exeter, said one reason for the increase in private drug-taking was the ease with which drugs could be obtained. "The Dangerous Drugs Act completely fails in some respects," he said.

He named a particular drug, which he described as "an extraordinary powerful addition," which could be obtained over the counter just the petrol without any restriction whatsoever. "It is extraordinary that such a powerful and dangerous drug can be obtained so easily."

Dr. H. T. Roper-Hall of Birmingham, said that much of the fear and pain associated with dental surgery could be alleviated by the proper use of drugs, but it was well to remember not to give too large doses as they might interfere with the occupation of the patient. Especially was the case with patients who drove their own cars which was remembered that one of the charges now possible was driving a car while under the influence of drugs.

Nicknames For Trains

Railway Men In England Give Them Titles That Suit

How many English boys and girls know that while they are lying peacefully asleep in their quiet little beds the flying "pig" is racing through the air?

It isn't really a pig, because, as everyone knows, pigs don't fly. It is a train which runs between Devon and London, bringing pork to the markets. And because the men who work on the railway are fond of it, they have given it this curious nickname.

Railway men are only little boys grown big, and just in the same way as they used to christen their typewriter in the nursery days, so now they think of all sorts of appropriate titles for the great metal trains that run up and down the lines. The "Bacon" is a Worcester train, because it is there that the famous Worcester sauce is made, the "Carpet" belongs to the carpet town of Kidderminster, the "Paddy" runs as you may guess, from Cornwall, and the "Spigall" (potatoes) from Cardiff.

The "Farmer's Boy" has a long way to go, for it travels all the way from Bristol to Birmingham. The "Hatter" is a bacon train, running along between Devon and Tiverton, the "Mop" goes to home traffic between Paddington and Bristol, that's what she does.

If you listen to railwaymen talking about the "B.R.C." train, don't fancy they are referring to a "special" belonging to the British Broadcasting Corporation. It is just an ordinary train joining up Birmingham, Birmingham and Crewe. And should they happen to tell you about the "Pink" train, don't imagine it is something to do with a motor race—it is only a steady-going old goods train bringing truck loads of spruce shavings from Yorkshire to London—Christian Science Monitor.

Dog Guards Dog Owner

Will Also Answer Phone And Close The Door

"Dixie the watchdog," an Alsatian wolfhound aged six, has been trained as the perfect companion for the deaf dumb. His owner, Johannes Hall, has taught him to:

Obey signs made with the fingers; wake his master when the alarm clock rings; fetch him to the front door to answer the bell; answer the telephone.

When the telephone rings, Dixie takes the receiver off and runs barking furiously to attract the attention of his master. Sound vibrations in the telephone are sufficiently amplified for a deaf man to comprehend them.

Dixie is occasionally nuzzled when a bicycle bell rings in the street. He does not know whether to ring the telephone or to the front door.

The new enterprise is to be exclusively State-operated. It will be under the control of the Ministry of Communications, and no insurance company will be allowed to undertake this kind of insurance must be between 160 insurance must be between $50 and $100 between the ages of 15 and 60 are entitled to take no policy. Features of the law are that applications for policies will not be required to undergo any medical examination and that the whole procedure for taking out policies is considerably simplified.

Philosophy Of Lincoln

Revered American President Uttered Following Precept: "Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; it is a positive good in the world. That man should be rich shows that there is no such thing as a free lunch; and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Yet not him who is honest but down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example inspiring that one shall be safe from violence when built."

Serum For Lockjaw

Must Apply Artificial Respiration While Taking This Drug

A deadly poison from the blowpipes of jungle savages is being turned into a cure for the most horrible form of death—tetanus or lockjaw.

After two years of research in the biological laboratory of Oxford University, London, Dr. H. H. H. West, who has been experimenting with the deadly ingredient, has called for human test.

He wants to fight lockjaw with poison in the body of a human being. Dr. West described the poison as "curare." It comes from the jungles of British Guiana.

Netives prepared it by boiling various plants in a great cauldron, he said. Some of the plants played no part in the manufacture of the drug. Dr. West said:

"Two years ago I succeeded in having an expedition sent out by the British Guiana forestry department, through the forestry office."

"They secured plants in a district famous for curare. These were sent to the country and from some of them, chemists have succeeded in preparing an alkaloid chemical substance which we have called curare."

The scientist explained that curare paralyzes the muscles, adding: "That is why we have always wanted to use it in case of fits and spasms. In cases of lockjaw, the victim usually dies in the course of a muscular spasm, and if we could paralyze the muscles it would prevent them."

Dr. West has appealed to all physicians within 100 miles of Oxford or London to notify him of cases in which they are dying of tetanus. He said:

"I can reach patients in this area within a few hours of word being received. The treatment is in its experimental stage at the moment and I would not care to use it except in cases where death otherwise would result."

Dr. West said he had enough of the drug to treat 20 to 30 cases. He said that the use of the drug is that as the paralysis would affect the muscles used in breathing, he proposes to overcome this by applying artificial respiration with a machine invented by Dragg and Paul. He said:

"Tetanus has been made with it and I know approximately how much to give a patient."

Clue To Mystery Island

Scientists Believe They Have Found Lost Polar Land

Signs indicating the presence of land in an unexplored area north of Greenland, about 775 miles from the North Pole, were contained in a wireless report from a Soviet expedition exploring the vicinity of the command of Prof. George Ushakov, vice chief of the Northern Sea Department, declared that the depth of the sea at the point was 400 meters (1,312 feet) to 120 meters and that the bottom was covered with sand, the evidence, said, indicated that land was nearby.

The aviator Visaroff took off to investigate in one of the expedition's two airplanes but was prevented by mist from observing farther than a radius of five miles. He saw only floating ice.

However, the Soviet flyer Mendenkoff after a recent flight from Cape Schmidt reported the discovery of large uncharted islands off the northern coast of Siberia.

He said that he believed that the land was the mysterious Anderson's land, the existence of which has been disputed for two centuries.

Controlling Mustard

Blackbeetles Chosen On Great Growth In Experiments

In an experiment conducted on the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, mustard was controlled in the following manner. Blackbeetles were fed on the mustard crop, was needed about June 15. The mustard seed lying in the first 14 inches of soil germinated about the same time as the blackbeetle but the mustard seedlings were soon killed by the faster growing mustard crop. After harvesting the blackbeetle, the land was not cultivated or disturbed in any way. The following spring oats were germinated about the same time, directly with a seed drill, with no previous cultivation. Some mustard came up in this field, but the infestation was so small that the plants were hand pulled with little difficulty and the yield of grain was higher than on adjoining plots seeded in the ordinary way.

Reports indicate that hoppers are very numerous this fall, as owing to late hatching of eggs when crops were well advanced, farmers underestimated the numbers present and did not spread bait in sufficient quantities.
If weather conditions remain favorable there is every indication of another outbreak in 1936.
Cultivation should be done as soon as possible, as a loose surface will not be conducive to further egg laying, and will assist in the destruction of those eggs already laid.

DESTROY GRASSHOPPER EGGS
By Fall Cultivation
Reports indicate that hoppers are very numerous this fall, as owing to late hatching of eggs when crops were well advanced, farmers underestimated the numbers present and did not spread bait in sufficient quantities.
If weather conditions remain favorable there is every indication of another outbreak in 1936.
Cultivation should be done as soon as possible, as a loose surface will not be conducive to further egg laying, and will assist in the destruction of those eggs already laid.
